For many, retirement is a mystery which makes planning for it even more important. While some workers may be able to rely on pensions, many workers will need to rely on their own work-related retirement plan and personal savings and Social Security benefits. These savings have to last longer because people are living longer, often into their eighties and nineties. This webcast will help unravel the mystery of preparing for life after work including the decisions you need to make, when you need to make them, and what to consider so you can have a financially secure retirement.

In this webcast, the Department of Labor's Employee Benefits Security Administration will provide information on making the most of your employer-provided retirement plan and checking if your retirement savings are on track. The Social Security Administration and Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services will discuss Social Security and Medicare benefits including factors to consider in deciding when to sign up for these benefits and what they cover. The Administration on Community Living will address how to avoid financial abuse and scams.

Whether you are close to retirement or helping your parents or grandparents plan, this webcast can help you prepare to make the necessary decisions so that you can enjoy a financially secure retirement. The more you know now, the more prepared you will be when you need to make decisions and want to retire.
