

A new savings-related article has been uploaded to the FINRA site: During Open Enrollment, Be Open to Retirement Saving Opportunities. ASEC partners may link to the article, which includes 401(k) tips, and information borrowed from the recent myRA Open Enrollment resource from Treasury. This article has also been submitted for syndication to Nasdaq.com, YahooFinance and The Motley Fool.

Summary: Open enrollment is an employee's annual opportunity to choose a medical, dental or vision plan; change or start flexible spending accounts; enroll in, or add or drop dependents to, insurance coverage. It's also a time to take stock of retirement savings plans. There are actions you can take this open enrollment season to put yourself on sound retirement savings footing, whether your employer offers access to retirement savings benefits at work or not.

Regards,
Pete